

About Speaker

Douglas Robbins

Douglas Robbins is a passionate writer, author, and speaker, who discovered the power of words at a young age. Fueled by a deep connection to language, he dedicated himself to writing and has authored five captivating books. In 2019, he unveiled his sci-fi novel "Narican: The Cloaked Deception," marking the beginning of an enthralling series that continues to captivate readers. Robbins' literary endeavors expand further as he released "Love In A Dying Town" in 2021, a poignant tale exploring struggle, love, and commitment against a fading factory town backdrop.

In addition to his writing, Robbins is a talented creator and speaker who also hosts his own podcast, The Douglas Robbins Show. Through this podcast, he engages in thought-provoking conversations with guests from various fields, delving into diverse topics and sharing insights with his dedicated audience. Robbins' creative pursuits showcase his unwavering passion for storytelling, as he continues to leave a lasting impact on readers and listeners alike. With a pen and mic in hand, invites audiences to embark on imaginative journeys and engage in meaningful discussions.

What People Are Saying About Speaker Douglas Robbins

Jamie Lynn

Host of the Electric Spirit Podcast

I highly recommend Douglas Robbins to speak at your next event. Doug's expertise as a distinguished author, spans multiple captivating genres, including spiritual, science fiction, and visionary fiction. His ability to weave unique perspectives on the human experience, coupled with a podcast that dives into thought-provoking themes, makes him an ideal speaker for events. Robbins offers an emotional journey through his books, but also inspires the audience with his insightful exploration of new ideas and emotions, leaving a lasting impact on your event.

Ed Watters

Host of the Dead America podcast

Douglas Robbins engaged in a candid and enlightening conversation about the often-overlooked facets of self-improvement. His depth of understanding is evident, and you can hear this in his discussions. It was a pleasure to have Douglas highlight this to my listeners.

Lino Martinez

PsyD, Podcast Producer/Host/
Poet and Professor of Psychology

I've had a wonderful opportunity connecting with Douglas Robbins twice on my podcast, A Little Less Fear Podcast the Dr. Lino Show. Douglas has a beautiful way of articulating his sincerity about interconnectedness, purposeful living, and the glory of our potential. I've taken a quote from him, 'You are harming yourself if you are not honoring your thoughts!' Honoring your thoughts means you are being more purposeful, therefore authentically integrating connection with self and with others. I am in a state of appreciation in my connection with Douglas Robbins.
